10 Second Sermons

The difference between an admirer and a follower [of Jesus Christ] still remains, no matter where you are. The admirer never makes any true sacrifices. They always play it safe. Though in words, phrases, and songs they are inexhaustible about how highly they prize Christ, they renounce nothing, give up nothing, will not reconstruct their life, will not be what they admire, and will not let their lives express what it is they supposedly admire. Not so for the follower. No, no. Followers aspire with all their strength, with all their will to be what they admire. (Soren Kierkegaard)
